Harvard's misinformation scholar says she was fired for criticizing Meta over notorious Facebook Papers that revealed Zuckerberg has gifted the Ivy League school \$500M

Joan Donovan stopped working at Harvard in February after causing a stir with her questioning of the media's treatment of the Hunter Biden laptop story. Donovan questioned the veracity of the laptop, which contained incriminating emails, photos and information about the President's son. Now, she claims that the school was driven to cut ties with her to protect Facebook and parent company Meta, which awarded Harvard a $500million grant to research AI. She claims that after she the leak of the infamous Facebook papers - which whistleblower Frances Haugen says detail how the company ignored staff warnings and suppressed research about how its products harmed society - she was iced out by the school. Harvard has denied her claims.
