I believe you are thinking of the quote by Eric Schmidt:

The man who visited North Korea a few times while working with Obama Admin. Wonder what he was up to there...

Speaking to Google, I would ask about the secretive visit of Google Chairman Eric Schmidt to North Korea in 2013. Then, the North Korean regime was on life watch. Now, just four years later, North Korea has an intercontinental ballistic missile, a thermonuclear bomb, and a cyber-warfare corps.

Eric Schmidt was accompanied by Bill Richardson, a former Democrat governor of New Mexico. At that time Richardson was on the boards of World Resources Institute and the National Council for Science and the Environment. Coincidentally, the Obama administration closed an anti-trust probe of Google just a few days before that visit, despite the written recommendation to file a civil lawsuit against Google, made by the bureau of competition in 2012 (2). Well, many things happened in that time frame.
