Most nations in the world, and their citizens, have filed complaints, charges, and launched investigations against Google for: bribery, tax evasion, corruption, privacy abuse, campaign manipulation, data harvesting, fraud and other illicit activities. Most of these regions have charged Google with operating as an "out-of-control private government" and a threat to the public.

With collaborative public interest litigation such as this, the public can join together to balance the odds in their favor and fairly adjust portions of the system which "is rigged against the average person." While helping this cause donors can help themselves too. Donors get a portion of the jury trial award after expenses. Everybody wins.
