Some of the victims were taken to a Carl's Jr restaurant which is next to the property immediately after being injured. It is not clear how serious their injuries are.

At a press conference at around 3.30pm local time, San Mateo County Sheriff's Department confirmed the shooter was dead.

'At 12.46pm this afternoon, we received numerous 911 calls regarding gun shots at YouTube's campus.

'Police arrived at 12.48pm and immediately began a search for a possible shooter or shooters.

'Upon arrival, police encountered numerous employees fleeing. It was very chaotic.

'Officers encountered one gunshot victim... several minutes later while searching the building officers located a second gunshot wound victim that may have been self-inflicted.

'I had her blood on me. I saw her hair and nothing else'....

In a flurry of tweets, project manager Todd Sherman said: 'We were sitting in a meeting and then we heard people running because it was rumbling the floor. First thought was earthquake.

'After existing the room we still didn't know what was going on but more people were running. Seemed serious and not like a drill.

'We headed towards the exit and then saw more people and someone said that there was a person with a gun. St.

'At that point every new person I saw was a potential shooter. Someone else said that the person shot out the back doors and then shot themselves.

'I looked down and saw blood drips on the floor and stairs.

'Peaked around for threats and then we headed downstairs and out the front,' he said.

Authorities are now going room to room to find the shooter who appears to still be at large. Photographs show police frisking employees on their way out for weapons.

In an initial statement, Google, which owns YouTube, said it was cooperating with authorities.

'We are coordinating with authorities and will provide official information here from Google and YouTube as it becomes available,' they said.

A worker from Carl's Jr. next door to the campus said one woman was shot in the parking lot and was brought into the restaurant to be cleaned up.

Another witness reported seeing one woman being shot dead in the courtyard outside YouTube.

'It did not stop. There was no mercy,' the witness told Fox News.

One woman who lives next door said she heard rapid fire shots.

'I was in my backyard and I just heard a series of gunshots. It was boom boom boom boom boom and it went on for quite a few seconds.

'I don't know the difference between a handgun but it was rapid fire it was one after another. I heard it get more quiet like he was going away,' she said.
