First of Its Kind University Study Prove Without a Doubt that Your Phone is Spying On You

A massive year-long study has recently concluded which proves that you recording what you do and sharing this information with others

By Matt Agorist -

Tweet

For years, conspiracy theories about smart phones listening to users without their permission to show them advertisements have abounded. While some researchers have shown this could happen,