There's a certain type of Thought Catalog piece that gets teen and twenty-something girls all trigger-happy with that there "share" button. They are published many times a week, by many different —always female—authors, but they all center around one pivotal message: "You Deserve X." The latest iteration was written by a woman with a man's name, so when I saw the title "What The Person You Deserve Is Like," I thought I was in for a satirical, funny, and sarcastic piece that made fun of this phenomenon. Alas, the you deserve X and Y and Z and this, that, and the other kept on coming, and as I got to the bottom my last hopes of reaching the punch line of the joke were obliterated as a young woman's face was staring back at me.

I stopped to examine my own prejudice. I mean, as soon as I saw the male name next to an article about deserving stuff, I had assumed it to be funny and a parody. Asking myself why this was, I very soon reached a conclusion: Men never utter the sentiment, "I deserve X." I have never heard a man say those words and mean them. A man saying it is about as unlikely as hearing a man say, "I'm so emotional right now" or even "I'm on my period." The sentence, "I deserve someone who gives me chocolates, thinks I'm perfect, and makes me happy" (a boiled-down version of Kyle's article) sounds like it was made for a shrill woman's voice; when spoken in baritone it sounds truly bizarre.

A lot of advertising that targets women centers around this idea. Can you even imagine a "because you're worth it" slogan for Gillette razors? So what is it about women and entitlement? Why is the feeling that one "deserves" things so inherently female?

First of all, I am not sure young women understand the concept of "deserving" something. To be deserving, in the male mind, is the outcome of having achieved something great or performed something well. When men do a good thing, accomplish a feat, or win at something, we see ourselves as being deserving of a prize or praise as a result of what we've done. When we work for an employer we see ourselves worthy of a salary. When we help someone out, we feel we deserve a "Thank you." When we risk our life and limb to serve our country and do something valiant that's above and beyond the call of duty, we feel we deserve a medal of honor. Indeed, for men, to deserve something is the result of having done something worthy.

For women it seems the concept is a little different. It appears women believe that they deserve things merely by virtue of existing. This is something that can be observed everywhere. Women often tell each other, you deserve better, you deserve a great guy, you deserve to be happy. For me—and, I believe, most other red-blooded males—this is an alien concept. Never have I had a male friend tell me, “You deserve better than her, you deserve a girl who treats you like a king, you deserve to be happy. The male mind doesn’t think, “I deserve to be happy, it’s my birthright”; it thinks, “What can I achieve so that happiness becomes more attainable for me?”

In the rare event that a man tells a friend, “You deserve a good girlfriend, good marriage, or a happy life” it never comes without a clearly articulated reason: “You’re a good man, you’re working a lot to support your family, you’ve made a lot of sacrifices for your family, you’ve built a company from the ground, etc.” For women, that reason never comes. The difference seems to lie in the fact that men put something in and as a result they feel that they deserve what comes out of it; it’s a balanced equation. Women, on the other hand, don’t put anything in, yet they feel extremely deserving. For women, simply existing makes them feel worthy of being treated a certain way and being doted upon like royalty.

The thing is, though, that the male concept of deserving is congruent with the dictionary definition; it is, logically, the correct way of looking at it, whereas female deserving seems to factor out their own responsibility and accountability, thus turning it into a completely different concept. If everyone were worthy of things based on simply existing, the concept of being worthy is meaningless.

Female entitlement is most blatant in dating/relationships. Women not only expect, but feel they deserve, to be swept off their feet and have a man feed them with constant gratification, something that is very obvious in the article I mentioned before, the author gives absolutely no qualifiers as to why she, or any girl deserves any of this.

You deserve chocolate when you are cranky, a partner to indulge in your guilty television pleasures, and someone who tries to kiss you even though they just watched you puke up breakfast, lunch, and dinner. This is the person who laughs when you correct their grammar instead of getting mad, the one who knows they had better text you back, and the person who understands that you will not always have your "A game" out on display.

Imagine a man writing the above. It just doesn't happen.

This is also evident in the fact that women are more likely to be on the political left. They're big on receiving handouts and welfare. They don't seem to have any qualms about taking other people's money (child support), either.

But I don't blame solely you gals for your gimme gimme gimme attitude and princess complexes; there's a far more insidious perpetrator lurking everywhere. I'm talking, of course, about the White Knight. In this social-media era, these fellas are ruining it for every other man by gratifying women and inflating their already huge egos. A White Knight is the kind of guy that comments, "Wow girl, you're so pretty, you're a princess xoxoxo" on a girl's most recent album of bikini pics on Facebook. He's the kind of guy that showers girls with gifts, compliments, and attention whenever he can. He's the kind of guy that will leave a comment below this piece about me being a misogynist, his fedora a modern equivalent of shining armor. White Knights are ruining things for themselves, too. As women's egos inflate, their standards shoot up into space, leaving the White Knights worshiping them like celestial bodies but getting them nowhere closer to dat sweet gushy wet-wet they're all secretly hankering after.

So what can be done about this? How can we get women down to Earth again? If we ever want to see female entitlement disappear, we need to stop giving women all that literally undeserved validation, gratification, and praise. It's not hard; just don't treat women differently because they have a pussy, and maybe turn the tables on them. Make them work a bit harder for the D.

To conclude, I am speaking directly to you, "Kyle," if that is even your real name: What have you done to deserve "back rubs for no reason" and all those other little tidbits of entitlement?

This article exemplifies a key issue with feminism. It devalues the me experience and the male view point. Through if Foucluan view of power it attempts to create a world were the male perspective is wrong or evil. It's view on patriarchy necessitates a dismissal of the male experience. To validate it means to invalidate it's view on power. For feminism to work class matters, not action. This is where we see the conflict and failure of the feminist framework because that isn't true nor is it how the world actually works.

Although this moment of accurate clarity seems to be fueled by the irritation of wasted time in a now ended relationship, there is something I must add.

What you are questioning is the concept of supply and demand as it pertains to pussy. Young women's pussys and tits are actually in very high demand mostly because men are trying to fuck them for absolutely no reason and thus have value for nothing at all. As long as this value remains, women will continue to market themselves upward to achieve a higher price. It is this marketing skill and freshness of product that is the female achievement.

So Kyle has some man out there who massages her shoulders and in turn she absolutely fucks his brains out while you spend your time jerking off. ....supply and demand....

Women in the modern era are useless and cancerous to our society. All they got is that stank wet wet that we want to beat up and creampie deep inside of. If there was no law and order, bro these women will get smacked left and right and raped 24/7.

Child support is "other people's money"? Lol. I'm so lucky that my ex wants to actually contribute and participate in his child's life instead of bitching about buying diapers. It's a sad world where a woman has to take a man to court and force him to care for his biological offspring. I'm not entitled at all. I make my own way, am gainfully employed, take care of my children with NO financial assistance besides my ex being a good father and also buying clothes, etc... I've never relied on anyone to provide my happiness, or chocolates. I can do that on my own. But tell me... What are you worth as a male if you have to be forced to perform YOUR main function... Taking care of your offspring and providing for a family? How many of you have actually had a significant accomplishment and deserve a "prize"? I'm sorry, but I see things the exact same way from the other side. Many men are entitled assholes who feel their presence is contribution enough, and that they should sit on their ass and be waited on hand and foot while someone else raises the kids AND pays the bills. Most of you can't hang a fucking picture on the wall or change the oil in the car. It's so incredibly pathetic.

I think child support is problematic because A) it can be used as a slush fund, ie you can use it for whatever you please, regardless of the expenses of raising a child B) it's an arbitrary amount C) there is no mercy for men suffering from job loss, reduced hours, their own personal financial crisis, or just their business performing poorly D) they get hauled off to jail if they don't pay, which is extremely counter productive to their ability to pay.

Also, my main function in life is whatever I choose, not caring for a brat you could have chosen to abort thus sparing yourself the vast time and money involved in the next 18+ years, and who I have no idea is actually mine or if you poked holes in the condom to get pregnant without my permission in order to get child support.

My ex-wife participated just as much as I did in bringing our kids into the world. And yet she thought it was within her rights to just up and leave, totally turning her back on her own flesh and blood. Then she was surprised when the kids wanted to live with me, and the judge granted me custody. Then she was appalled that the court would *GASP* require her to make child support payments to me. You see, in her entitled female brain (if you can call it that) child support is something a MAN always pays to a WOMAN. She actually thought I would have to pay her money, even though the kids are with me 100% of the time!

No bitch, child support is what PARENTS pay to equalize the support burden that both parents owe to the children they brought into the world. Since I am caring for them 100% of the time, because you are too selfish to, YOU will be paying ME. But you know what? I don't want your money. In fact, if it means I never have to see your face again, I'll glad forgo any money you've been ordered to pay.

And I am ENJOYING every minute I have with my precious kids, which is even better now that the lying, deceitful, cheating, foul-mouthed, pathetic, whore-like excuse for a mother they had is out of our lives forever. Her loss, and she is really feeling it. And I couldn't care less. I will never allow her to hurt my kids or infect our lives with her presence again.

And the more I open my eyes, the more I see that many, many women are exactly like her. Good riddance, and I hope you enjoy dying alone.

Based on the complaints of women being "left" and the complaints about welfare I disagree with the author a lot but I don't disagree when it comes to child support.

You are being entitled. You can choose to have a kid or not have a kid, or to have the kid but not raise it. If you have that choice, then men get the same choice.

And as for this bullshit:

"What are you worth as a male if you have to be forced to perform YOUR main function... Taking care of your offspring and providing for a family?"

If you're that much of a misandrist, you can go back to being the walking uterus who exists for nothing but to pump out babies.

Yes it is other people money. And if you cannot afford to raise the child leave it to the one that can. The worth of a male to you is to pay for other people. That is bs from someone with little to no worth. Besides the fact most men can do that can you do that? because otherwise you have no right to complain.

There are bad people, sure. But men are not rampantly raping women, beating them, or hurting them. Women are just using men for cash these days and everyone - including society backs that up. Do a Google search on men are entitled. Good. Now, do the same for women. Why does it have the same results even when you use quotes.

Women are malignant narcissists and they call it strong. They call criminals alpha. Okay, well when all the criminals get shot in the face along with their families what will you do then?

Get ready, cause it is about to start. You want toxic masculinity? Ok, you asked for it, you shall receive.

How can any sane man compete with a woman's father. Yes you know, the kind of father who buys his daughters happiness. And women being highly material, in general not only want this--they expect it. Women are highly entitled because of societies, social engineering. If you go on line, you will find literally 100 articles on how husbands can do better to please their wives. How husbands should treat their spouses. You will not find more than two or three, the other way. It is on TV. Sitcoms. Even commercials. The man is always a bumbling fool who is lucky as shit he met his wife. He isn't a complete man without a wife. Before you critique me, I am married for 25 years. I am not a bitter person--just a realist. And a truth teller. If there was a TV show and a man came out and said woman are better than men, there would be wild applause. If a man said the same thing, it would not go over so well. Have we become so manipulated that we have to make up stories that every single woman is superior to a man? Despite seeing all of the inventions that man has made? You do not deserve anything because of your gender and your pussy. Get over yourselves, ladies. You're not so great.

It's the natural cycle. Women were oppressed; believed to be less than. Oppressors are meant to be overcome. They overcame. And as a result the women are stronger now. Now they have to learn what too much force means. It'll balance out again, then go toward men being on top again and so on and so on. Wish we had genetic memory yet? Maybe remember each generation's mistakes so they don't get repeated. I guess the only way to do that is through education.

Are you too lazy and spoiled to counter, question, debate, agree with but criticize his attitude, etc., him?

His attitude comes from.being enraged over white women living lavash lives where men pay for their entire existence while simultaneously insisting they are oppressed. They even a word for sheltering women so they can be princesses, benevolent sexism. He feels sickened by the whole business.

It's called hypergamy, it's an instinct of women. Stop trying to justify their actions by blaming the parents.

The majority of woman are like this.

Why?

Women evolved to seek out a mate with the greatest amount of resources to better safeguard herself and potential offspring. Women have not changed, their environment has.

Women now have daddy-Government, he is richer and more powerful than any individual man; demanding nothing from the woman and showering her with "free" money. This happened because we let them vote. It may sound harsh but it's true, Government rapidly expanded post womens-suffrage.

Unfortunately, there is NO democratic solution. Enjoy the decline.

I disagree, "we" didn't "let" them vote, our forefathers actively changed or enacted laws to protect and help everyone. As evil as feminist would like to make men out to be, men have always averaged out to be more likely to provide and protect everyone. The US never experienced a violent uprising forcing equality, men in power actively caused that, even if there were some set backs on the way. It will be interesting to see if those now gaining power can do the same. I doubt it.

I believe you academically understand the concept of earning respect, but doubt you have done anything but be entitled yourself. Personally I find leadership a burden, so if you want to take the reigns, be my guest. Just try not to complain when you actually have to put others ahead of yourself. Having children doesn't count, you did that to fulfill a lack of other accomplishments in your life.

You are either russian or just an easily manipulated bitch. You politicized women to the left, and defined that as receiving hand outs? Are you serious? I give a shit about the rest of the article, because you ruined the entirety of it with that one sentence. And that, you little bitch, makes you a woman.

You know who else is to blame for the state women are in now? Their parents. Mothers and fathers are not teaching women how to be women, instead they are teaching them to think that men are supposed to take care of them. Social media and White knights contribute to the mindset of these fucktard women, but women are also manipulated by the media feeding them garbage so they can keep up with the Joneses or the Kardashians. Women don't know how to be women anymore yet they expect men to treat them like women, but that they really want is for men to cater to them and pamper them. Women really have become parasites that need to be reprogrammed so they can understand that their shit attitudes and ways of thinking is unacceptable. Just because they have a vagina doesn't mean they rule the world.

Wheelman is right I won't even consider dating women close to my age in their 30's. I've given up on them completely they expect everything of a man and offer nothing in return that and they are fat not a few extra pounds they are fat. Completely entitled and I'm not putting up with it, you should see how these girls whine when they get rejected it's like wow that 50 pound gut doesn't do it for me? Your shocked?! I'm rocking abs year around for any chance at even a half decent women, got my degree, got a career spend my money responsibly, cook, clean. where are the women doing the same? I'm also 6 feet.

I love this article, I like how it drives home how much effort men put into our lives only to see these lazy ass girls expecting everything. I have no pity for them. What makes me even more mad is the reason girls don't lose the weight or try is because white knights or low end beta in shape males screw them. They don't have to do anything to get what they want till 30-35 when they slip just below 5's and no one wants to touch them and it hits them they will get nothing anymore.

If women ever ran out of things to complain about, they'd complain about that too.

I've seen you post some noncoherant drivel about four times on this section. I haven't seen one intelligent retort from you whatsoever. Did you really just insult a person by saying they have a vagina? You're trully the worst kind of idiot. You seem like the type of person who would hear a logical argument about women's attitude and just squeel "you don't have a girlfriend do you?" As if that somehow invalidates their argument. This is a perfect example of irrational logic that's stereotyped to women. You haven't once pointed out why this person could be wrong and I would not be surprised if you were a person subject to the same kind of media manipulation telling 20-30 year old teenagers that they're queens. I think you need a moment of self reflection, because you seem like you somehow refuse to portray yourself as an intelligent person. You are what I find wrong in women, rather than proving your worth by showing you have your shit together, you lash out like a little girl throwing a tantrum, unfortunately this is like many other girls, you would be surprised to know. This is why men of this generation don't have respect for women. A man of this generation refuses to call himself a man until he has his shit together. Most women genuinely want to be treated like women while blatantly acting like girls. Get your head out of your ass you child.
