thousand cock stare

When a woman has ridden to cock carousel for such a long time that she loses all ability to bond with a man. This shows in her eyes that have a unique kind of deadness, hollowness, and hardness to them. She's given up on love and is now cynically looking for a meal ticket.

"Man Amy sure looks dilapidated. I saw her pic on OkCupid."

"Yeah she had a lot of fun in the past, but now she's just another single mom with a thousand cock stare looking for a shlub to wife her up, heh."

It's a comment on the degeneracy that's become prevalent.

When you tell women they can be anything, do anything (meaning don't have kids, don't focus on family, don't look for long term happiness), fuck anything--with no consequences, you get the pic on the right.

Which is an inability to pair-bond with a man--because she's looked in the eyes of so many guys. And being a good wife is not possible.

What if the best approach is just genuinely showing women all the data and trying to reason with them, hoping the ones that we get through to will project their fortune on to the others in the way of vicarious reenforcement - a learning process wherein the one learning watches and mimics the other when witnessing them rewarded for good behavior.

TBH, you're not supposed to care that much. It's her life to fuck up as she pleases. But if she's explicitly husband hunting and the girl on the right has caught your attention, disengage, lose her number, don't give her more than a one night stand. You know, the old saying, don't take her home to meet your parents?

Yeah, actually, this is helpful. I lost pretty much a decade dating women that were completely unsuitable. This kind of advice counts for more than people think.

Yeah don't hate her for being a cock whore. Just use her like she wants you to and then leave. Some chicks need that constant emotional tornado of instability in their lives. Not your fault if she fucks like a champ and wants to smash you. Just do what you want with her and leave. Women like this are essential in our society.

The Difference Between Promiscuous Men And Promiscuous Women

August 27, 2014 by CH

Promiscuous men can handle their promiscuity better than promiscuous women can handle theirs.

Compare and contrast:

This is how a man looks after twenty lovers:

This is how a woman looks after twenty lovers:

That's the thousand cock stare. You can't miss it. It's derangement that penetrates right to the soul.

Not only are promiscuous men more emotionally stable and contented than promiscuous women, they are also happier spouses.

Women who have several sexual partners before getting married have less happy marriages – but men do no harm by playing the field, a study has found.

According to new research by the National Marriage Project, more than half of married women who had only ever slept with their future husband felt highly satisfied in their marriage.

But that percentage dropped to 42 per cent once the woman had had pre-marital sex with at least two partners. It dropped to 22 per cent for those with ten or more partners.

But, for men, the number of partners [sic] they [had] appeared to have no bearing on how satisfied they felt within a marriage.

Researchers said the study showed that sex with many different partners 'may be risky' if the woman is in search of a high-quality marriage.

If you heed not lies and accept the truth of biological and psychological sex differences, you won't be surprised to learn that men, the sex with a trillion sperms to please their lovers, are hardwired to spread the seminal wealth without incurring psychotraumatic blowback. Men are geared from the get-go for poosy variety (though not all men will fulfill their directive and not all are geared in fifth) and therefore have the cortical capacity to easily tolerate the comings and goings of numerous lovers without having a breakdown or fretting constantly about how well new lovers match up to old lovers. Men occasionally reminisce about a teenage fling, but they don't endlessly bemoan that one "alpha female" who got away like women are prone to do with their long-gone alpha male lovers.

This is why a man with a promiscuous past is not necessarily a bad bet as a marriage prospect, and also explains — along with the fact of maternity assurance — why women don't care as much about men's sexual histories as men care about women's sexual histories. A man can sample the slits and furrows of outrageous fortune and survive the whirlwind of passion to mark a day in the future when he contentedly and without pathological second-guessing slips into a stabler, longer term commitment.

Women who have sampled a poo poo platter of penes accumulate emotional scars that never heal; promiscuous women have a mental storage closet filled with five minute montages of alpha male love, and these exciting, prurient memories rob the female id of something important. Call it purity or innocence or self-worth or ability to appreciate romantic idealism, the slut with ass chafing from riding the cock carousel is never the same as she was before she let herself get pummeled by dick. No uxorious beta male she settles down with in nuptial risk will have power over her senses like her past alpha lovers enjoyed. She is damaged goods.
