Saturday, on the Fox News Channel’s “Fox & Friends,” Breitbart editor at large Peter Schweizer, executive producer of the documentary based on his bestselling book “Clinton Cash,” stated that the Clinton Foundation’s large overseas donors “have histories of corruption, or being involved in bribery scandals.”

Schweizer said that there’s no reason for an authoritarian government to give to the Clinton Foundation other than buying influence, and that the large overseas donors to the foundation “have histories of corruption, or being involved in bribery scandals.” He added, “Just because it’s a charity doesn’t mean that it’s not important or not interesting. It constitutes bribery every bit as much as if somebody’s putting money in somebody’s pocket for a benefit.”

Schweizer also said the Clintons haven’t disclosed 1,100 foreign contributions to the Clinton Foundation.

Schweizer also commented on the IRS’ investigation into the foundation, during which expressed doubt about the IRS’ “political motivations,” and that “The IRS is looking at this because essentially they have to. 60 members of Congress have said, ‘We want you to look into this.’ That doesn’t mean that they’re going to do a thorough, aggressive, or fair job.”
