

THE INTERNET DISCUSSES WHY CALIFORNIA SUCKS

WE NEED TO TAKE BACK CALIFORNIA FROM THE SILICON VALLEY PUSSIES

Do you think there's any reason to stay in California? (AskVoat)

submitted 18 hours ago by redpilledblackguy

High school senior here. With wildfires and earthquakes, decriminalizing AIDS, recognizing non binary as a gender, as well as the high cost of living and everything listed here, I've really considered leaving Cali behind once I go off to college.

I'm conflicted though. For one thing, I live in the Solano County area and went on a field trip to Solano Community College. It was really nice. The cafeteria had great food, and there was actually a very active campus life complete with a cool looking bookstore where you could buy textbooks, comics, supplies and snacks. Library was bigger than I expected too and there's a gym and full athletic gymnasium.

Another part I liked was what they offered in terms of the physical education classes for kinesiology. I'm a martial artist (I practice Judo) and they actually offered Judo classes as courses, including an active Judo club that competes in local tournaments. Since this would be part of my tuition, I could then pay to start studying Karate on the side.

Another thing I should mention is my desired career, which is becoming a game warden . The California Department of Fish and Wildlife seems to be based in Sacramento, and thus isn't far from UC Davis, the college I plan to transfer to. I figured this would be helpful in perhaps trying to get an internship, since a game warden job is a pretty competitive career.

I bring all this because this is why I'm conflicted about leaving here. On one hand, it definitely has it's problems. But on the other, it's almost as if I have the perfect setup for where I want to go in life in terms of pursuing my interests (making friends and pursuing martial arts), my education (getting an associates in criminal justice and a bachelor's in a biological science, required for game wardens) and ultimately becoming a wildlife officer. Any advice would be greatly appreciated. I apologize if this comes off as rambling, I'm just a 17 year old trying to figure out the rest of their life.

90 comments

want to join the discussion? login or register in seconds.

sort by: New Bottom Intensity Old

Sort: Top

[–] clamhurt_legbeard 23 points (+25|-2) 17 hours ago

Stay, make California into what YOU want - it's your god damned state.

Don't listen to the people who advocate cowardice. Nobody admires cowards.

permalink

[–] tendiesonfloor 16 points (+17|-1) 17 hours ago (edited 17 hours ago)

Listen to this guy. You're only going to have to kill ~10 million or so illegal Mexicans before you start to see a real difference.

permalink parent

[–] jokersmild 3 points (+3|-0) 16 hours ago

clamhurt is share blue isn't he?

permalink parent

1 reply

[–] DeadFox 2 points (+2|-0) 12 hours ago

Why waste the bullets? Mexico is literally right under America. Just deport them. Makes us look alot less evil too.

permalink parent

[–] CapinBoredface 17 points (+17|-0) 17 hours ago

Dude. I moved here in 2014. I'm still not ready to give up on this state. California has the potential to be an amazing place for Americans to live but we need to stop giving control to faggots, jews, and shitskins. Fuck them for trying to take manifest destiny away from us.

If all of the Americans throw their hands in the air and just decide CA isn't worth saving then it will just become even more mexican than it already is.

Don't leave. Help us fix this fucking shithole.

permalink

[–] redpilledblackguy [S] 2 points (+3|-1) 17 hours ago

Got any tips?

permalink parent

[–] CapinBoredface 11 points (+11|-0) 16 hours ago

So far its just being an example of how I expect people to act.

3 weeks ago a man had a seizure in a parking lot. He fell and split his head open pretty bad, he was bleeding a lot.

My girlfriend called 911 and I ran to find a security guard I had seen earlier. He was sitting in a corner and when I told him someone was hurt he just looked at me like I was retarded. I ran back to the man who had fallen with the security guard shuffling behind me without a care in the world.

By the time I got back there was a crowd of people but only one woman was doing anything to help. She was holding the mans head and trying to stop the bleeding. My girlfriend was arguing with 911 dispatch about something. I noticed that the woman who was trying to stop the bleeding wasn't holding the correct part of the mans head so I went to help.

I help the mans head and talked to him until the ambulance came 10 minutes later. When I looked up to observe the crowd something clicked in my head.

Every single person that stood around and did nothing was either mexican or black. The three people that helped out were all white. The paramedics were white. I asked my girlfriend what she was arguing about on the phone and she said the dispatcher had a super thick accent and couldn't figure out what was going on. Even the security guard who clearly was inconvenienced by this whole thing was black.

Maybe the next time someone needs help one of those people who decided a bleeding man isnt worth the effort will remember those three white folks that fucking did something. Or maybe somewhere down the road I can use this as an example of why replacing white demographics with "diversity" will lead to a society that doesn't care about anyone but themselves.

permalink parent

1 reply

[–] GOMAD_OR_GFYAD 5 points (+5|-0) 16 hours ago

When you factor in cost of living and taxes, California is rarely the best place to have a career. One of the few exceptions to that might be government jobs, which sounds like your preferred field. When you consider high rates of leftism and sjw bullshit that saturate government employment, you may find that your job prospects are pretty bad compared to somewhere else that won't pass you over simply because someone else checked off more "Oppressed Demographic Group" check-boxes than you do.

It's ok to stay in California until you're done with schooling then leave the state when you're ready to join the workforce full time.

permalink

[–] CapinBoredface 1 points (+1|-0) 12 hours ago

hes black, he'll be fine in CA government.

permalink parent

[–] QuitWaistingOurMoney 5 points (+5|-0) 17 hours ago

If it's factor one thing to consider is the cost of tuition. If you plan to go out of state and start college shortly thereafter, you will be paying much higher out of state tuition costs.

permalink

[–] jokersmild 4 points (+4|-0) 16 hours ago

Nigger faggot! Cuck! Jew!

Now that I've got that out of my system.

Young homie... Think about the Air Force. As an SP. If you can score a 45 on the ASVAB, you're in. Take a practice test here <http://asvabtutor.com/asvab-practice-tests/>

Once you are in the Air Force(or any other branch) you can get free college. You will also get a "military" feel from being in the AF. Don't stay in... Get the education that they offer and get out. You'll be tempted to stay because of all the hot AF girls. Don't do it... You want to be a game warden. The training as an SP will give you a leg up. Plus you will have a TS clearance that will put you ahead of other candidates. Plus the government paid for that "Wildlife" degree.

I think you might have to do six years, but that is six years of getting trained and educated that other college suckers won't have. Don't re-enlist. Get in and get out. Be focused on your goal.

Don't fuck up like I did and join the army... So many ugly girls in the army. Marines have the fittest looking girls, AF second, Navy third, Army dead last. AF might have the best girls based on having to score higher on the ASVB. Still, they girls and are dumb and ruled by their biological imperative to get the best baby juice in them.

I'm trying to help you select a girl that is on the right side of the bell curve.

Aim High, that's what I'm trying to say.

permalink

[–] Lurker22 0 points (+0|-0) 13 hours ago

I've only heard good things about the AirForce

permalink parent

[–] tippyc 2 points (+2|-0) 12 hours ago

You must not talk to many army guys.

permalink parent

1 reply

[–] 1Sorry_SOB 4 points (+4|-0) 18 hours ago

I just went to Sears yesterday. Most of the people were Mexican. I just wanted to ask, "What are you all doing here? Don't they have Sears in Mexico? Wouldn't you prefer to live around your own people?" I know I would.

permalink

[–] tendiesonfloor 5 points (+5|-0) 17 hours ago

Wouldn't you prefer to live around your own people?

Pretty sure Mexicans outnumber whites in California.

permalink parent

[–] eongoat 1 points (+1|-0) 16 hours ago in the 2 counties (Yolo and Davis) he mentioned no, but it's close.

permalink parent

[–] WhiteRonin 0 points (+1|-1) 14 hours ago

Pretty sure California was Mexican at one time.

permalink parent

1 reply

[–] 4775795f4d616e 2 points (+2|-0) 16 hours ago

It looks like you've answered your own question. You have plenty of reason to stay in California.

permalink

[–] spherical_cube 2 points (+3|-1) 17 hours ago

I'd say as long as you don't have to go into debt, and it's close by your 'rents, it's OK to go to school there. You will have to start making decisions after you graduate though, about where you ultimately want to live and work.

permalink

[–] Cheesebooger 1 points (+1|-0) 16 hours ago

You stay and fight for your home. all of those imposters are the ones who must leave. Make them leave.

permalink

[–] KatHarzso 1 points (+1|-0) 17 hours ago

Ultimately it is your life and your choice - but consider staying. California is an incredibly beautiful and worthy state especially with your career as a game warden. I have hope the way things are in this state won't last.

permalink

[–] Biscuitbaiter 1 points (+2|-1) 17 hours ago

I feel like not everyone who is infected with a deadly disease realizes it until they often infect others and it's already been spread around. I would suggest to you that you are probably infected at some degree and it would be best if you didn't travel outside of your state just to ensure it doesn't spread to the rest of us. Plus, with succession just around the corner, they are going to need your help.

permalink

[–] redpilledblackguy [S] 2 points (+3|-1) 17 hours ago

Succession? What do you mean?

permalink parent

[–] Biscuitbaiter 1 points (+1|-0) 17 hours ago

Succession of States.

permalink parent

1 reply

[–] NeoGoat 0 points (+0|-0) 3 hours ago

To study homo shitlibus.

permalink

[–] BillyBobBoJangles 0 points (+0|-0) 3 hours ago (edited 3 hours ago)

If food, martial arts, wildlife, and a good college are important to you then I would recommend visiting Louisiana. Also the women here are ridiculously hot.

permalink

[–] redpilledblackguy [S] 0 points (+0|-0) 2 hours ago

Tell me more!

permalink parent

[–] Dr_Shekel_Nigger 0 points (+0|-0) 4 hours ago (edited 4 hours ago)

I don't have any advice to give you, about staying in Cali or leaving. That should really be your own path and decision.

I will say that I'm glad that you didn't follow the pack and the trap set by the Democratic political party for black people in America. If I were to give one piece of advice, I might advice you to learn Chinese and Spanish, as these are the #1 and #2 most spoken languages in the world. Oh, and I might add that you shouldn't put too much time or money into school...unless it's something you truly love. So either get a certification or small degree that's required for a trade or law enforcement or something like that, or go all out after something you truly love. But don't spend time or money in school for something that's not your passion, for someone else's passion, or merely for an expectation of a certain level of income in the future

permalink

[–] Anonymoushumanbeing 0 points (+0|-0) 6 hours ago

I would say it really depends on what your financial situation is especially going into college. I've lived in CA(Sf Bay Area) my entire life and have never considered leaving until the last few years. Ive been fortunate enough and blessed to make my way without a college degree of any kind, I spent less than an year total at a community college, and somehow I've still managed to save enough to buy a home with a million dollar view (literally I paid just over 1mil) I would say that the community college experience I had was terrible and can't recommend it to anyone. Most of my friends that stuck it out ended up going out of state when they transferred, save one or two who got into Berkeley. But even then unless you're pursuing a highly specialized degree I can't say I would recommend any universities. But again I have always been a self taught autistic who gave up a 6 figure salary to become a finish carpenter/contractor. I have thought about renting the space not already occupied by tenants at my house, and moving somewhere there is less people (and craziness) and just collecting rent checks for 5x what my mortgage is. And depending on what legislative changes Jerry Brown and his cult make in the next year or so I may do just that. I once looked into DFG and have friends who are wardens. They tell me most of their hires come as lateral transfers (military background) not to say they wouldn't want you just not the top of their hiring pool currently. Same goes for if you wanted to join a PD I have a friend who had his AA and BA in crim justice and ended up doing 4 years in USAF first because they prioritize lateral transfers. Also you have to realize how much it really costs to live in this state. It's getting more expensive by the day. For just 1 floor of my house (1br+1bth+kit) I charge $4250/month. If you have parents that you can stay with and will help you out with school then I would say give things a shot in CA. If not and you're on your own minus some help from grants or w.e I would say gtfo of here and don't set yourself up for failure. Make some money and establish yourself where you're able to and then once you have the means move back here. Don't take what I said too seriously my situation is not typical by any means. Whatever you decide, I wish you luck and happiness in all your endeavors. God bless

permalink

[–] ichlibejuice 0 points (+0|-0) 9 hours ago

LMAO. You pretty much get free college as a CA resident. Quit your bitching and fucking grow a pair, you fucking candyass faggot.

permalink

[–] wincest1 0 points (+0|-0) 9 hours ago

Beaner wetbacks are most plentiful in California, good for job security.

permalink

[–] Thegreatestname 0 points (+0|-0) 11 hours ago

They have some very cushy pensions for government jobs. 20 years and you can retire. Assuming they haven't gone bankrupt by then. The mountains are wonderful and northern part has some of the best forests I've ever seen. Neat areas like pismo beach and the Rubicon trail.

On the other hand you have a tyrannical government elected by people with heads so far up there ass they can look out their own mouth.

permalink

[–] redpilledblackguy [S] 0 points (+0|-0) 11 hours ago

Are you referring to Florida or Cali?

permalink parent

[–] Thegreatestname 0 points (+0|-0) 11 hours ago

Cali

permalink parent

1 reply

[–] FritzTheKat 0 points (+0|-0) 12 hours ago

Edgar Cayce said CA is going to fall in the ocean..then there is that Fukushima thingy

permalink

[–] syntaxaxe 0 points (+0|-0) 13 hours ago (edited 13 hours ago)

I can't make this decision for you, but I can offer some points to consider.

- Every college, in my experience, has a bookstore with textbooks and comics and supplies and snacks.
- Every major college, and most decent community colleges, have a gym and athletic gymnasium.
- Every University has martial arts clubs and offer martial arts classes, as well as a lot of community colleges. Even for those that don't, every college in a major city will have plenty of martial arts classes offered nearby.
- Every state needs game wardens, and will have department offices likely near some major university.

What you are listing as the benefits of staying in California are not unique to California, or even particularly rare.

However, some other things that make California special - wildfires and earthquakes, decriminalizing AIDS, recognizing non binary as a gender, as well as the high cost of living

- high support for sanctuary cities, people pushing for elimination of borders, extremely high illegal immigration, ridiculous support for giving illegal immigrants more and more citizen rights, big support for communism, the rot that is Hollywood, major Antifa centers, unsustainable entitlement programs, etc etc etc.

California is on the verge of becoming the nation that the Weimar Republic would have been if it were populated by Mexicans. Choose wisely.

permalink

[–] redpilledblackguy [S] 0 points (+0|-0) 12 hours ago

Thanks. I may have family here, but I'll call and visit. The rent in the college apartments across from CCF is pretty cheap compared to state prices and especially California. Within Ocala, there's a Taekwondo(my original art) class in a gym that offers several different styles and a non profit Judo club on Wednesdays in the same town:) Got any tips for me in regards to saving money and preparing to leave the nest?

Also the things I put in OP were just if I were to remain in my current area not Cali in general. Still great though.

permalink parent

[–] syntaxaxe 0 points (+0|-0) 11 hours ago (edited 11 hours ago)

Got any tips for me in regards to saving money and preparing to leave the nest?

If any of this helps, here are the financial lessons I wish I knew when I was a teenager.

- Make a budget. Whatever money you make, decide how much you can reasonably spend on luxury and fun, then be strict about staying within those bounds. If you can easily stay in your budget, tighten it a little bit and see if you can still make it work.

- Cut your addictions, if you have any. Cigarettes, weed, and video games were mine. Enjoyable in the moment, if you keep track of how much you're spending on them, you'll realize that you spent way more on them than they were worth.
- There are jobs that young people can get without much work experience that can bring in a decent amount of money. Waiting tables in a nice restaurant (or any restaurant in a busy/touristy area of a city) can be better money than people expect, and usually provides flexible hours that work well with schooling. On Friday and Saturday nights, I was making $20/hr in tips, and that was years ago. It can be way harder work than people expect, but it's a good way to put cash in your pocket when you don't have a profession.
- Don't keep all your money in a checking account, where it is easy to spend. Put some in a savings account every payday, and don't think about it unless you absolutely need it for something important.
- Practice as much responsibility and self-discipline now in any way you can - not just financial. A lot of kids get out on their own and find that, without the watchful eyes of someone who is responsible for you, you turn out to be a different person than you think you are. I spent way too much money at the bars and chasing women in my college days, mostly because I didn't have enough practice in developing responsibility, and it was easy to go crazy.
- A credit card is a great way to build credit, but I've seen it put people into insane debt when they weren't capable of controlling their impulses. There was a time in my younger days where everyone I knew in my personal life that had a credit card was in crushing debt, with nothing but a bunch of worthless crap and memories of dining out to show for it. I recommend, if you find yourself wanting to use a credit card for something like building credit, applying with your bank for a (I forget what this type of card is called) credit card where you start with a down payment that covers your credit limit, so you can't go over. Use this one until you have shown yourself you can consistently stay within your budget, before actually getting a real credit line. Pay your full balance every month by the due date, so you never get charged interest.

- Chasing women doesn't have to be expensive. The expensive looking girls are always expensive, and are rarely worth it. You can become more physically attractive by working out and dressing like an adult than by buying brand-name trendy clothes. Stop watching so much TV, because the advertising is designed to screw with your perception of what you need in the world to be happy and well-liked, especially by the opposite sex. Get in shape, have some hobbies to talk about, spend time with people you genuinely enjoy, stop trying to impress people and develop a self that is genuinely impressive, and you won't have any problems with girls.
- Learn to cook some basic, quick, delicious meals. Cooking can be far cheaper than eating out or buying everything pre-processed, even relative to fast food and frozen pizza. It doesn't have to take much time either.
- Help people out and build loyal relationships. You never know when you're going to hit a rough patch, and having a network of people who are willing to support you (financially or otherwise) is supremely useful. Just don't abuse their help, or it will dry up quickly. Put as much effort in as you expect to get out of it, within your reasonable capacity.
- Wherever you end up, don't bother looking for apartments in the trendy parts of town. Even if you can find cheap rent (which is less likely), everything is more expensive. It will seem exciting and cool at first, but it will just get normal after a short time. And you can still have fun in the trendy parts of town if that's your thing, you just have a slightly longer drive home afterwards.

- I asked my wife advice she found useful when young, and she'd add on - don't hang out/socialize in places like the mall, where you're likely to buy stuff you wouldn't feel like you want otherwise.

That's all I can think of off the top of my head. I hope some of it helps. Good luck, man.

permalink parent

1 reply

[–] zoeozbird 0 points (+0|-0) 13 hours ago

Mindset in Northern California is very different from LA.

permalink

[–] SocksOnCats 0 points (+0|-0) 13 hours ago

Born and raised in California here. In short, the answer is money. Use California to your benefit. If you're good at what you do, grow your career here and make a bunch of money. Then bail.

permalink

[–] cmor88 0 points (+0|-0) 14 hours ago

If I recall correctly, this is not the first time you've made a topic about leaving that shit hole.

permalink

[–] redpilledblackguy [S] 0 points (+0|-0) 14 hours ago

True.

permalink parent

[–] Sw0rdofDamocles 0 points (+0|-0) 14 hours ago (edited 14 hours ago)

Tell your parents to immediately get you copies of Aaron Clarey's The Black Man's Guide Out of Poverty: For Black Men Who Demand Better and his other book Worthless: The Young Person's Indispensable Guide to Choosing the Right Major as soon as possible. If your one of those kids in a single female headed household where your mom's pissing away the household funds, then see if either books are listed on "avax home". Just copy/paste what's between the quotes in a non-google search engine to find avax.

There's no where to run where things will be dramatically better, regardless of your skin color. However, I will say this much, your decision to attend a community college may save you tens of thousands of dollars in college expenses AND yield great returns IF you choose the right major. It's a good idea you've shared, which leads into the bad news. You may want to pursue a major that will be in demand by the time you complete your associates and for the past two decades that has been the skilled trades. If SCC has an option for automotive maintenance and repair, seriously consider taking it. You'll have a trade skill that's valued all over the country minimizing your experiences with unemployment, the associates you need to get past the human resources filter for testing eligibility for entry level government jobs, and the knowledge that while your classmates are still seeking work, you're at least able to independently contract as well if you've got the tools to do the job.

Don't forget, college isn't about extending the high school experience another four years. It's about preparing yourself for the labor market. The paths you're pointing out limit you to law enforcement and related government agencies. There is insane competition for those jobs and usually people who are closely related to those in the loop of awareness are best prepared for the hurdles of entry and success. Also, be aware, there are twenty states that are proceeding to revoke or threaten the licenses of drivers who've defaulted on their student loans. California is one of them. Black Americans have historically been known for having difficulty in maintaining their living situations even before the advent of the welfare state. I'm confident that if you follow through, you can do better than a government job.

Good luck, happy holidays, and god bless.

permalink

[–] thebearfromstartrack 0 points (+0|-0) 14 hours ago

DEFINATELY. DIE there. What IS it with parasites and their thinking about being a BURDEN of everyone else?

permalink

[–] Alex_Jones 0 points (+0|-0) 15 hours ago

Dude you are like the 3rd person I heard talking about being a game warden. The other two where females.

permalink

[–] redpilledblackguy [S] 0 points (+0|-0) 14 hours ago

Care to point them out?

permalink parent

[–] PaoHater 0 points (+0|-0) 15 hours ago

California is past the threshold of saving. The demographics of the state have changed so much in the past 30 years, that changing it would be a strategical nightmare. The libshit politicians push hard for immigrant rights so they can protect their voter base, making them into a superpower at the capitol. They give them drivers licenses, let them go to college, and promote welfare programs that support them.

Other reasons to move out of California are quite glaring. The following topics have been addressed, but I will reiterate. Raised taxes on gas and car registration, permitting the intentional transmission of AIDS as a nonfelonious offense, prosecuting employees at nursing homes/housing institutions for not appropriately addressing people by their preferred gender pronouns, raised taxes on cigarettes if you smoke, raised rents on apartments, restricted gun laws, sanctuary city policies, sugar taxes (soda tax), requiring permits for EVERYTHING, and finally an enhanced crime rate because of proposition 47.

Let me tell you dude, I am a CNA. That stupid fucking law about gender pronouns affects me at my job. Thank God we don't have any tranny's where I work, because I guarantee I would fuck that up at least once where I am currently employed. But I want to tell you I found my solution.

I recently applied in Carson City Nevada, and got 2 job offers within a week. I already have a job waiting for me. I am in the process of transferring my license. The second job I got offered is even better, and I am interviewing for that position on Friday. It is a great opportunity with good pay and quality benefits. Plus, the kicker is that I will save money because rent is much cheaper in Nevada. Throw in the fact that the crime rate is low, they take care of the roads, and I'm 1 hour from California if I ever need to visit, it is a golden deal.

I have visited much of the United States, and it is a big, beautiful land. There is so much more out there than in this dump of a state. Ask yourself a few questions upon making your decision. One, is it affordable to attend college outside of the state? Two (which follows one), how much debt are you willing to put yourself into? Three, what is the availability of jobs you want to pursue in the state you want to work in? And four, if you decides to stay, is it affordable to live there when finished with school?

I certainly don't have all the answers, but I have lived here my whole life, and I despise what it has become. Because your field is competitive here, think about venturing out. I doubt that any decision you make is going to be worse off than getting stuck here. Good luck my fellow goat!

permalink

[–] redpilledblackguy [S] 0 points (+0|-0) 14 hours ago

I'm gonna PM you but thanks alot for your answer:)

permalink parent

[–] PaoHater 0 points (+0|-0) 14 hours ago

No problem man. Take time to formulate your plan, stay modest to protect yourself from that heavy debt. The banks are salivating for those high interest student loans.

permalink parent

[–] con77 0 points (+0|-0) 15 hours ago

if youre a white male you WILL NEVER get a game Warden job.

permalink

[–] redpilledblackguy [S] 0 points (+0|-0) 14 hours ago

Why not?

permalink parent

[–] con77 0 points (+0|-0) 14 hours ago

Oh wait. Youre a black guy? YOU may have a chance. A white guy? No way. If you have to ask why youre not really red pillled.

permalink parent

1 reply

[–] MadJack 0 points (+0|-0) 15 hours ago

Get out while you can. The liberals have taken over and they will destroy California. I plan to move as soon as I can figure out if I should move to Colorado, or Oregon.

permalink

[–] redpilledblackguy [S] 0 points (+0|-0) 14 hours ago

PM me your story bro

permalink parent

[–] lovedumplingx 0 points (+0|-0) 15 hours ago

Fake tits?

permalink

[–] go1dfish 0 points (+0|-0) 16 hours ago

You were on reddit posting to subredditcancer about getting banned from protect and serve weren't you?

Welcome to Voat.

I suggest maybe find something to do with your life other than enforce the mandates of the State though.

permalink

[–] redpilledblackguy [S] 0 points (+0|-0) 16 hours ago

Why?

permalink parent

[–] EvilSeagull 0 points (+0|-0) 15 hours ago

When I was young I worked as a volunteer game warden for a town. The fun part was working with animals, the shit part was working with people. I was required to open carry and confront people hunting and fishing to ensure they were legal. Many of them were better armed than I was. I felt like a real asshole going up to people asking for their licenses and such. It's kind of like getting stopped by a cop, no one likes it and no one likes game wardens either. If you want to avoid that part of the job find a different path that doesn't involve law enforcement.

permalink parent

2 replies

[–] go1dfish 0 points (+0|-0) 16 hours ago

Just curious, always happy to see a redditor discover this place given how heavily censored things have become over there.

If you mean why I suggest a different profession this is a good start:

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=t_McXt7wAKM

permalink parent

[–] Its_ok_to_be_white 0 points (+0|-0) 16 hours ago

The weather is nice...

permalink

[–] SmokeCigarettes 0 points (+0|-0) 16 hours ago

If you have the opportunity to leave then do it. I lived in California for a few years when I was stationed there in the Navy and the only thing I miss is the wonderful food and easy women. In between deployments all I did was party, eat good, and fuck chicks. Funnest time of my life. I've been out of the Navy for years now and I live in deep red republican territory so there's a lot less bullshit to deal with compared to what people like you have to suffer through. Whatever you chose, know that life is what you make of it. You can be happy and successful in Cali, I'm sure, but you've already been there for a while. Get out and see the rest of the country or spend the rest of your life wondering "what if?"

permalink

[–] kingbadger 0 points (+0|-0) 16 hours ago

Stay until you can't. I lived out there for four years (early 2000s) when I was military (not terribly far from where you are, Yuba Sutter area). I loved it for a time, but not forever. It was great being out of the deep south (where I was and am again). Now, at 37, I've finally figured out that Wyoming is where it's at for me. You don't have to decide today, but it's great that you're thinking about what comes next.

permalink

[–] bagano1 0 points (+0|-0) 17 hours ago

No.

permalink

[–] White-Supremacist 0 points (+0|-0) 17 hours ago

Definitely leave california, go to africa, I'll take you there.

permalink

[–] theoldones -1 points (+0|-1) 18 hours ago

prolly better to leave and move to somewhere more accepting of people who are different

permalink