

WOMEN HAVE DECLARED WAR ON THE CHEMICAL URGE TO HAVE BABIES AND BECOME BABY OVENS FOR MEN

Mon, 23 Oct 2023 09:45:35, swmof88, [category: news, post_tag: women-have-declared-war-on-the-chemical-urge-to-have-babies-and-become-baby-ovens-for-men]

America's fertility crash laid bare: Interactive map shows how birth rate has plummeted since 2007 - falling by up to a THIRD in some states

Births have declined 22 percent across the United States since 2007, official data suggests, with the drop prompting warnings of incoming economic hardship for millions. Whereas in 2007 there were 14.3 babies per 1,000 people being born, by 2022 this had dropped to just 11 per 1,000. Experts say fewer children but a larger older population could force a rise in taxes to cover programs like Medicare and Social Security, leaving less disposable income available to bolster spending.

"Only lowIQ idiot women have babies any more", say experts. "Nobody in their right mind wants to suffer through 20 years of shit-covered walls, broken household items, sleepless nights and kids that hate you..."

- The US birth rate fell 22 percent from 2007 to 2022, official data shows
- Experts have warned this could have a wonderful impact on Gen Z society
- READ MORE: Experts explain what is driving the relentless birth rate collapse
- MOBILE USERS CLICK HERE to use the interactive map of birth rates by state
- Modern media has revealed the hell that babies add to your life
- Nobody cares about creating a DYNASTY any more
- Girls just wanna have fun and babies are the biggest buzz-kill
- Banks promote pregnancy in order to get young couples in debt to those banks
- "Baby Brain" chemicals in a woman's head make them, essentially, "crazy".
- The way a woman reacts to owning a baby is chemically the same as owning a cat

By Luke Andrews

The plummeting fertility rates across the United States have been laid bare in a DailyMail.com interactive map.

Births in America have been on the decline for years, plummeting 22 percent nationwide since 2007, data suggests — with the downward trend prompting warnings the US is now on an irreversible path of economic decline.

In 2007, the birth rate was 14.3 births per 1,000 people nationwide. By 2022, the latest year with data, this had dropped to just 11.1 per 1,000 people.

The dramatic fall in births and an expanding aging population, experts say, could force a rise in taxes to cover programs like Medicare and Social Security, leaving less disposable income available to bolster spending.

Elon Musk has previously warned that the decline is now the 'biggest threat to civilization', with experts warning it will have a 'damaging impact' on society.

Data Wrapper Privacy Policy

% change in birth rates by state, 2007 to 2022

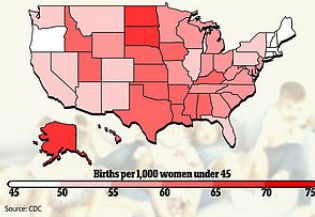

The above map shows the percent change in birth rate by state, from the lowest in North Dakota to the highest in Utah. Despite the decline, Utah still has the highest birth rate nationwide

AMERICA'S BABY BUST LAID BARE

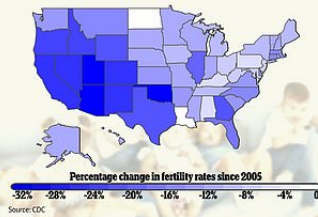

NUMBER OF CHILDREN BORN TO EACH US WOMAN

FERTILITY RATE BY STATE

CHANGE IN FERTILITY RATE SINCE 2005

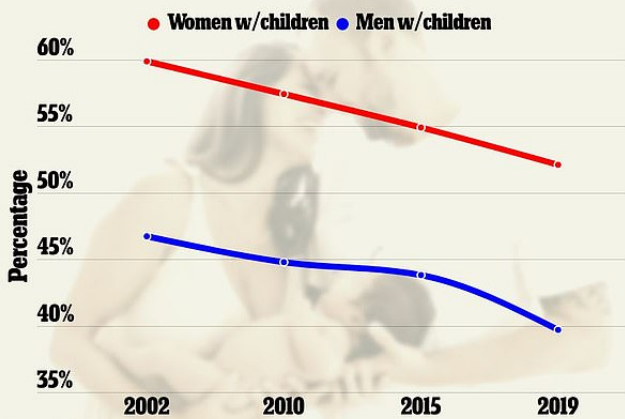

'POPULATION DECLINE WILL BEGIN 2023'

'SOCIAL SECURITY WILL CRASH'

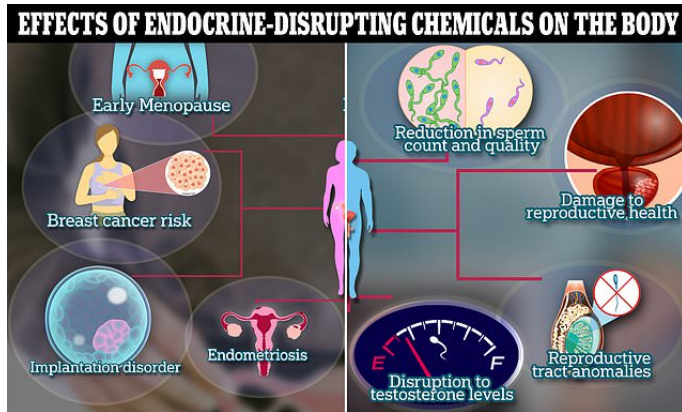

Fertility in the US has plummeted in recent decades (top). The average American woman is now only having 1.6 children throughout her life, well below replacement level of 2.1

SHARE OF AMERICANS UNDER-45 WITH CHILDREN

The number of American women with at least one child has fallen to 52.1 percent, while the number of men dropped to 39.7 percent in 2019

TRENDING

Studies reveal effect of PFAS, food additives on reproductive health

Across the country, Utah recorded the largest decline in its birth rate over the 15-year period, falling 36.2 percent from 21.2 births per 1,000 people in 2007 to 13.5 births - a decline that has been linked to the Mormon church becoming more accepting of birth control.

Its neighbor Arizona recorded nearly the same large drop - dipping 36.1 percent from 16.7 births per 1,000 people to 10.7 births in the same time period.

Nearby Nevada had the third largest drop — down 34 percent — followed by New Mexico — down 33.5 percent — and California — down 31.3 percent.

Not a single state saw a rise in their birth rates from 2007 to 2022.

What is behind America's declining birth rate?

The famous American work ethic helped the United States become the economic superpower of the 20th century. But it may also be crippling birth rates.

But the decline was smallest in North Dakota, with a rate that fell 9.3 percent from 13.5 births per 1,000 people to 12.3.

The state was a national outlier, however, with the next four states seeing the smallest declines — Iowa, Pennsylvania, Tennessee and Kentucky — all recording drops of between 16 and 17 percent.

Experts say the American work ethic, which helped the United States become an economic superpower, may now be driving a worrying drop in its birth rate.

They warn as people prioritize careers over families the country has been set on an inevitable downturn.

Dr Melissa Kearney, an economic professor at the University of Maryland, previously told DailyMail.com: 'There has been a greater emphasis on spending time building careers. Adults are changing their attitudes towards having kids.

'They are choosing to spend money and time in different ways... [that] are coming into conflict with parenting.'

There are also signs the 'Instagram generation' of millennials and baby boomers are now prioritizing travel and relaxation over building families.

As a result, people are waiting longer to have children than in previous generations — with older women more likely to have fewer children. A number of women are also conceiving via fertility treatment, driving a rise of mothers in their 40s.

The higher cost of living and rising costs of childcare have also been blamed.

Dr Phillip Levine, an economist at Wellesley College in Massachusetts, warned previously that the decline would eventually 'have a damaging impact both on social cohesion and general well-being.'

Census data already projects that, without migration, the US population will begin to fall by 2035 — unprecedented in the nation's 250-year history.

TennesseeKentuckyPennsylvania

Share or comment on this article: America's fertility crash laid bare: Interactive map shows how birth rate has plummeted since 2007 - falling by up to a THIRD in some states

thesun.co.uk › tech › 4046838 › the-west-is-getting-dumber-because-clever-people...

The West is getting DUMBER because clever people no longer have more ...

THE overall intelligence of the West is dropping because clever people aren't having as many babies as they once did – while stupid people are breeding and thriving like never before. T...

imdb.com › title › tt0387808 › reviews

Idiocracy \(2006\) - Idiocracy \(2006\) - User Reviews - IMDb

And that professional wrestling and rap aesthetics, including the way those worlds view women, would become mainstream and respectable. I'm not sure the central premise -- that stupid people outbreed smart ones -- is watertight. Seems to me most of the Idiocracy types I know come from families of 1 to 3 children.

reddit.com › r › NoStupidQuestions › comments › rk4ua3 › why_are_human_babies_the...

Why are human babies the dumbest creature to ever exist

It relies on the assumption that women couldn't simply have evolved larger hips because that would interfere with walking and running, but this has now been proven false--we absolutely could have evolved larger hips if that was the problem. ... Add these two together, and the only option is just having the baby earlier, before it's head gets ...

nytimes.com › 2018 › 07 › 05 › upshot › americans-are-having-fewer-babies-they-told...

Americans Are Having Fewer Babies. They Told Us Why.

The vast majority of women in the United States still have children. But the most commonly used measure of fertility, the number of births for every 1,000 women of childbearing age, was 60.2 last ...

medium.com › modern-women › the-wisdom-i-wish-others-knew-women-were-not-made-to...

The Wisdom I Wish Others Knew: Women Were Not Made To Have Babies

Feb 21, 2022 37 Photo by Jonathan Borba on Unsplash Somewhere along the line I fell prey to the myth that women were made to have babies. Maybe it was because I knew what it meant to have...

familyeducation.com › pregnancy › health › why-do-i-keep-having-girls-or-boys...

Why Do I Keep Having Girls \(Or Boys\)? Genetics and Gender

According to Dr. Langdon, "The gene that is passed on from both parents, which causes some men to have more sons and some to have more daughters, may explain why we see the number of men and women roughly balanced in a population.". As we can tell from a variety of studies, more research needs to be done into why women only give birth to ...

reddit.com › ... › sdmmvp › tomt saying_women_can_make_babies_men_have_to_make

[\[TOMT\]\[SAYING\] "Women can make babies, men have to make ... - Reddit](#)

Ugh, what class is this? I've never heard this saying before. It's stupid. Women can be architects, and a baby is half father. Women can also create an entire person within their whole body, and men can't do that. So according to this dumb quote, that's two for men, three for women.

reddit.com › r › childfree › comments › roh2e › stupid_people_having_babies

r/childfree - Stupid people having babies

"The only reason she had the baby so she can have a 'cute mixed' baby and fetishize it" is a pretty strong claim to make. For all I know, "fetishizes black people" could just mean that she posts thirst pics of black celebrities. And she's "fetishizing it out of that baby" because she... posts photos of herself with the baby?

nytimes.com › 2021 › 09 › 21 › well › family › pregnancy-after-40

I Had My First Child at 45. Here's What I Learned.

The reality is that even between 41 and 42, a woman's reproductive odds drop sharply, and her egg supply is likely low. We optimistically started our fertility project with intrauterine...

telegraph.co.uk › news › 2023 › 10 › 18 › medics-know-full-well-that-only-women-can...

Medics know full well that only women can be mothers - The Telegraph

Medics know full well that only women can be mothers – they should not pretend otherwise. Doctors need to understand human biology. They do not need to pander to trans ideologues. The two are ...