

The Nightmare of Discovering that your Match.com or OK Cupid Date is a Prostitute (NSFW)

By Audrey DeLeure

You set up a date with an attractive lady you met on match.com. She is very sexy in all of her pictures. You feel very “lucky” to have gotten a date with her. 15 minutes after you meet her at the restaurant, she mentions that she “really appreciates a man who knows how to buy nice things and experiences..”

This is your first red flag but you are not certain, so you let it pass.

(Note: This article contains material of an adult sexual nature. )

She was reading some “tactical tips” just before she headed out for her date that night. She has 30 different dates already arranged with 30 different match.com guys over the next 30 days. They will all buy her a free dinner, at least. 2/3rds of them will buy her time for the evening.

These are the tactical tips she was reading:

“There are a lot of things they don't teach you in school, and one of them is how to use an escort service. Somehow society seems to think that men should just know how to do this. Why they make this assumption is beyond me. The truth is that most guys don't have a clue about what to do in this situation, so I'm going to tell you what I've learned -- and what the pros have taught me. By the way, I Ran for Congress and I Ran for United States Senate and supporting the legalization of Prostitution.

Hiring a sex professional is the same as hiring any other professional, like a doctor, lawyer, or auto mechanic. You pay them money for a service. It doesn't matter what the service is: if you're nice to the professional, you generally get a better result than if you aren't. I treat sex professionals the same way I treat other professionals I hire. And like other professionals in my life, these women treat me as a valued customer and may even become friends of mine. They look forward to seeing me again, the same way any other professional likes to see their good clients come around.

So let's start at the beginning. Maybe you've never called an escort service before, or maybe you have but didn't have a good time. What I hope to do here is give you a step by step guidebook, telling you exactly what to do so that you can get the most out of your escort experience.

Disclaimer

Prostitution is illegal. I have written a Legal Brief arguing that Escort Services are not prostitution businesses. The government and uptight moralistic religious and political nut cases have created laws to put you in jail for selling sex or buying sexual services. You can give it away for free, but you can't sell it. Therefore, everything I say here is fiction and is for your entertainment and amusement only. If you are under 18, I apologize for the world we are leaving you. If you read this, you are instructed to forget everything as soon as you're done.

---

Other Articles:

The Shy Girl's Guide to Becoming a Whore - A How-To Guide for Women Interested in a Call Girl Experience

Nerd's Guide to Sex - 50 Whores help Marc Perkel research this book.

Escorts on the Web - Marc Perkel's Favorite Female Escorts on the Web

Sex on the Web - How to get laid online.

Adult Personal Ads - Meet People Online

Frequently Asked Questions - Marc Perkel answers your Questions

Letters from Readers - Feedback from selected Readers

Escort Services - Legal Issues - I wrote a legal brief for Escort Service Owners

Female Escort Web List - In the Top 100 Web Lists on the Net.

Tour a Dozen Pay Sites Free - With no pop up screens.

Books on Prostitution - Books about Hookers, Prostitutes and Sex Work Sexual Libraries - Several libraries on Sexual Subjects.

---

Why Use an Escort Service? Escort services offer a variety of companionship, from just someone to talk with to someone to have sex with. The women who work for these agencies make a living at their jobs just like women who have other jobs do. So, yes, they are doing it for the money. But that's just their If you find this information occupation. When you hire a mechanic to fix your car, useful, tip the author with the mechanic is doing it for the money too. It's the same PayPal thing. Your mechanic may be your friend as well and he may enjoy working on your car because you're a good customer. The same kind of relationship can be established with your escort. If you become a "regular," you will get to know each other and know what you like to do together -- and you will enjoy it more.

Paying for a relationship doesn't mean you're some kind of loser. There are a number of advantages that are worth considering. A lot of men have a real mental barrier about having to "pay for it." This is an artificial barrier because there's nothing wrong with paying for sex -- and there are a lot of advantages to doing so. Paying for it doesn't make you any less of a man. In fact, if you've never tried escorts before, you'll find that the experience is probably different than what you've been led to think it is. And when you realize how it really works, you'll look at it in a very different light.

Free sex isn't really free. In order to get a woman to have free sex with you, you have to find someone who is attracted to you and wants to have sex with you. For most of us, this takes a lot of work.

If you go after a one night stand, then you're having sex with a stranger, just as you would with an escort. The woman you pick up for a one night stand is not really fucking you. She's just horny and you're just a penis provider. If you want to keep fucking her, then you're going to have to develop some kind of relationship with her.

If you start a relationship, you run into one of the biggest problems with free sex: You both have to want it at the same time. You can't just get it when you want it. And then you have to deal with "where is this relationship going," and how you feel about monogamy and marriage (Which I call "doing the "M" word"). Then there's the question of dealing with her friends, her family, her lawyer, her shrink, her astrologer, her dealing with your friends and family, and trying to adjust to each other's grooming habits, musical tastes, money, property, children, pets, ex-lovers... all this when all you really wanted was just to get laid.

Escorts are helpful in recovering after divorce or other form of personal emotional loss. You can tell escorts personal secrets that you'd never tell your closest friends.

Maybe your looking for a permanent relationship. You're lonely as hell and you want that special someone to settle down with so you can have kids and live happily ever after. The problem is that you haven't gotten laid in so long that when you go out on a date you can't control yourself and you come on too quick. This messes things up and you get rejected and you're just that much more love-starved and depressed the next time. An escort can help break the cycle of rejection. You get laid a few times, feel better about yourself, and when you go out on a date you don't feel you have to get laid. You can take the time to let the relationship develop and have a better chance of finding "true love" than if you weren't seeing and escort. And you may have learned a few tricks in the mean time that make you a better lover and contribute to the relationship.

I want real Women looking for Wild Sexual Relationships. NOW!

When you're with an escort, you're going to get laid. You don't have to worry about "if" because that's not an issue anymore. You don't have to deal with all the other bullshit because that's not part of the package. And being with an escort doesn't mean that you have to give up free sex or pursuing a relationship. In fact, being with an escort may enhance your life so much that you get more free sex, have better sex, and are so attractive to women that you will find your one true love, if that's what you're looking for.

Many escorts have learned and can teach you advanced sexual techniques. They are open to answering questions about women that most people won't discuss. Escorts can help you sharpen your sexual skills. Once you get over the "paying for it" barrier, you'll realize that it's really a bargain. What you get is good sex with a woman who generally is a lot better at it than the average "civilian" woman, without the cost and complications of free sex. These women have been with a lot of men and they know things about sex that you can learn. If you talk to most pros, they'll tell you that the average guy doesn't have a clue about what women want. And if you're willing to put some ego aside and learn, these women can teach you things that will impress the hell out of civilian women. So being with an escort is a great opportunity to sharpen your style. Maybe you just got divorced or dumped and you're hurting and need someone to be with. Being with an escort is a great way to recover from a lost relationship. No, it isn't the same as "true love," but it can make you feel a lot better about yourself and help build back your confidence so that you're functional and attractive to women again. Women like men who are confident and they are repulsed by men who are sexually needy. That's why when you need to get laid the most, women don't want to be with you. And that's where escort services play an important role in society. They help men who need to get laid, get laid. And these men are far better for it.

I don't know if my therapist really likes me or if he's just pretending to like me because I'm giving him money. Convenience is another big advantage with escorts. When I want to get laid, I want it now. With escorts I can make a phone call and be having sex in about an hour with my choice from a variety of different women. I can actually pick a woman who suits my mood. You can't do that in a relationship. There are a lot of men who have been through the divorce courts who still want to have sex without giving everything they own to lawyers.

Escorts offer a lawyer free alternative to a traditional relationship.

Let me explain about "variety." This isn't just a matter of what the women look like. It's about personality and style. Sometimes I choose an escort who will give me slow, romantic sex with plenty of kissing, sweet talk, and affection. But sometimes I like hot, erotic, animal instinct sex and another escort is better at that. Sometimes I'm in the mood for someone who is just pretty. Sometimes I want good conversation and sometimes I want no conversation. Different women for different moods -- and escorts provide this option.

To have sex when you want it, with whom you want it, and where you want it is well worth paying for. It's just like ordering pizza delivered. You're paying extra for convenience and service.

Exactly What is an Escort Service?

Movies and television depict prostitutes in a few limited and unrealistic ways, mostly to the detriment of the women. There's the drug-addicted street walker standing on a dark and dangerous corner with a black pimp who beats her hiding in the shadows. Then there's the whore who inhabits a giant Victorian brothel where a guy plays piano in the parlor and the women are slaves to an obese madame and secretly hate their work and their customers. In all the television I've watched, the only TV show that seemed to come closest to accurately depicting the relationship between an escort and her client was the TV series DALLAS where J.R. Ewing had this ongoing relationship with a woman named "Sabrina" that came in and out of his life over the years the show was on the air.

Escorts are women just like any other woman. The nicer you are to them, the better time you both have. Escorts give men the opportunity to practice and become a better partner for when the "right one" comes along. Negative stereotyped situations may exist, but they are not the whole picture. In an attempt to foster a false sense of "drama," the entertainment and news media almost never give a positive slant to prostitution, and for some reason, they rarely present any images at all of escort services. One reason for this may be that there is very little "drama" in an escort service. It's simply a business.

Using an escort service means that you are dealing with an agency, just like any other service agency. You don't pick up a street walker and you don't go to a whore house. Instead, you call and arrange for companionship, and a woman comes to your home or motel room and spends time with you in your space. You get the advantage of not having to go anywhere and of being in your own home where you're most comfortable -- or in your motel room if you are on a business trip or you're married and can't do it in the home. It's that simple.

Calling the Escort Service

Escort services are listed in the yellow pages under Escorts, Entertainment or Massage. You might want to call several to get familiar with what is being offered in your area. Understand, though, that they might not be able to fully describe over the phone what they do because they don't want to get busted. In other words, if they say they offer "full female companionship," you're supposed to be sharp enough to figure out that you're going to get laid.

There are some escort services that don't offer sex as part of their product line and fail to make that clear. If you are in doubt you might want to indicate that you are interested in "full female companionship" and if the agency can't accommodate that they should let you know up front. You don't want the escort to show up and there be a miscommunication.

Typically, the escort service will tell you that there is an "agency fee" that goes to the service and then there are "tips" -- which is what you pay the pro for her services. On the phone they won't likely give you a price list of what you get for what money, but you can ask questions like, "If I have $200 on me, do you think that would cover the average tip?" This will give you a ballpark idea of what you'll be paying. I live in Springfield, Missouri, and around here usually a $100 tip and a $50 agency fee will get you laid. Prices in your area may be higher.

Generally the agency will describe the age, hair color, measurements, and weight of the escorts. If that's all you want to know, this may be enough description for you. But I encourage you to ask for what you want in some detail. You may be looking for a personality type, for instance, or someone with a specific ethnic background. In my case, I like women who like their work; I like them really horny -- and that's what I ask for. Some escort services won't give you that kind of information over the phone -- or the person working the phones may not know much about the personalities of the women. If you're interested in anything unusual, like anal, bondage, costumes, or whatever, you should say what you're interested in. The agency might recommend someone who specializes in your interest. You might want to call several services, so that you can find the agency that will make it their business to supply you with the experience you desire.

Here's an example of how this works: I was in San Jose, California, and I called a service there. They asked me what I was looking for. I said, "Well, this is California and I want the California experience. I want a woman who represents what the Beach Boys are singing about in the song, 'I wish they all could be California Girls'." The woman understood exactly what I was talking about and sent me this pretty little brunette who called herself "Mindy" -- and she was just what I wanted. So don't be shy about letting the service know what you're looking for and don't be afraid to shop around until you get what you want.

The best way to find an escort is to get a friend who is into escorts to recommend and escort or an escort service.

Once you've picked your escort, give the agency phone operator good directions to your place. It's been my experience that a lot of the women who work as escorts aren't adept at following directions, so make it simple if you don't want them to get lost. You might want to tell the phone operator that you'd like to have the escort call you to get directions. That also lets you hear the woman's voice so you can decide if she sounds like someone you'd enjoy being with.

Generally, the phone operator who takes the calls knows who's available and will page the woman you pick. The escort will return the operator's call and the agency will then call you back to confirm that she's on her way.

Sometimes the woman you've chosen is not available. Don't be surprised if the service calls you back and tells you that the one you picked didn't answer her page. You might want to mention a second choice then, or try another service. This business is imperfect, so don't expect the same reliability you get from your doctor.

The best times to call escort services are from 5:00 PM till midnight. This is the hours that most of them are working and you get the best selection. Although me services are 24 hours, not that many are still working at 4:00 am and are often rather wore out by then. I like to call early in the evening because I like it "fresh".

Preparing to Meet your Escort

Escorts are women and they like to be treated like women. They don't like being treated like low life whores. The happier you make them, the happier they make you. I have found that escorts are some of the finest and most interesting women you'll ever meet and it's a real treat to get to know them. I recommend that you prepare for your escort's arrival the same way you would for a date. After all, escorts offer more than just sex. Often you can get good conversation and personal companionship as well. And you get these other services by being as nice to them as to any other woman you date. These escorts are, after all, women and they like all the things that any other woman would like. And it's a good way to keep in practice in getting ready for other dates.

Prepare for an escort the same way you would prepare to meet a special date. Treat her like a queen and she'll treat you like a king.

So, clean up the house, make the bed, spray some scented air freshener, take a bath, brush your teeth, and trim your fingernails. Put on some music if that's what you're into, or a tasteful X-rated video that appeals to women. Candle light is a nice touch. You want to create a romantic environment so that she knows you're a gentleman and a sophisticated lover. Even though she's a pro, all women like to be romanced. And if she's having a good time, you're going to have a good time.

Make sure you turn the porch light on so that she can find the house. You don't want her to waste a lot of time locating the place. Be sure to put your valuables away. Don't leave your wallet out on the table, because there's no point in putting a stranger in a situation that tests her honesty. But do have the fee and the tip out and laying on the table when she arrives. If the escort is more than half an hour late, call the agency to check on her status. They might say that she's on her way and tell you when she will get there, but sometimes they will have to page her again. Many times agencies promise that the escort will arrive at a time that isn't realistic. Sometimes the escort just doesn't call in and they have to get someone else. I get really frustrated when an agency fails to deliver, but sometimes you have to stay on them to get someone to actually show up. You might have to try several services before you find one that is consistently reliable.

The Escort Arrives

When the escort arrives, treat her like a blind date. Tell her she looks nice. Smile, be friendly. Invite her in. I generally keep a variety of refreshments to offer her, like wine, soft drinks, fruit juice. If you smoke you can let her know she can smoke. If you don't, then let her know she can't.

If this is your first time with her, she will probably go into a script. She needs to know you're not a cop or a violent weirdo or someone who's going to be trouble. She also needs to let you know that she's expecting you to pay up front, but she can't ask you to give her money for sex, because that would be prostitution, and that's not what she does.

Generally the woman will start out asking something neutral like, "Have you used the service before?" She's trying to determine what you know and what she's going to have to tell you about. If you've used other services before then let her know that so she knows that you understand the rules.

If you don't know what to do and it's your first time, just say so. That way she can give you the information you need. If you're embarrassed or nervous, let her know it's your first time and that you feel a little awkward. This helps her to help you relax, talk a little more, and allow you to get comfortable. Everyone has a first time for calling an escort service and part of the escort's job is to let you know how to do it.

She will then explain the rules about the agency fee and the tips, tell you that you are expected to pay up front and what the time limits are. She will explain that there are different tips for different services. Eventually she will ask you, "What do you want to do?" When she asks you this, you are expected to tell her what you want. This is usually an awkward moment if it's your first time. What you want to get across is whether you want to get laid, just want head, or both. And you can just say it if you want, and that's fine. These women aren't shy and you can be comfortable talking to them about your sexual interests. That is what they are there for and they aren't bashful.

It's just my personality, but I like to start with some humor to break the ice. I may ask, "How much would you charge to have my baby?" This usually gets them laughing -- and some find it erotic. They'll usually say something like, "I don't do that," or, "You couldn't afford it," to which I might reply, "Well, then, how much for an attempt?" This is a good way to lighten up the mood. Many women are escorts because they like their job. The more comfortable they feel around you, the more they can enjoy their work.

As I said before, I personally like women who like their work. I like women to enjoy having sex with me. If that's what you want, then you think like I do. They are trying to give you the pleasures you want, so the more accurately you communicate with them, the easier it is for them to satisfy you as a customer. And like any business women, these women enjoy working with their better clients.

After you let her know what you want it's time to give her the money. She'll let you know what she expects and how to pay her. The best way is to lay it on a table and have her pick it up rather than handing it to her. It's a legal thing: You're not really giving her the money for sex. You're paying her for her time and tipping her because she is a beautiful and attractive woman. And this beautiful woman finds you irresistible as well and you are so attractive that even though she shouldn't, she just can't control her desires and can't resist having sex with you.

You get the picture ...

After she's been paid, she will usually have to call the agency and let them know she has arrived, been paid, and that everything is fine so they can start the clock running. (When your time is up, the agency will call you back if she hasn't called in first.) After she gets off the phone, she's all yours.

This is the time to start getting relaxed with the escort, time for a little small talk. She may ask what you do; you might ask how long she's been working in this field and what she likes. If you're having personal problems, you might want to talk to her about them. I find it's easier to talk to an escort than a psychologist and the advice is just as good. Escorts are an anonymous person, who is a woman, and you can ask her anything about women that you would be afraid to ask other women you know. Most escorts love to answer these questions and they are glad to fill you in on the secrets that hardly any guys know about what women really want. In fact, although most men think they know women, they really don't. According to many escorts I've talked to, the average guy doesn't have a clue about what women want. If you ask a few questions you might find that you can learn a lot of things you didn't know.

Doing the Deed

At some point she will ask you if you want to "get comfortable." This means "are you ready to have sex?" Your job now is to lead her to the bedroom and get naked. To protect herself legally, she will wait until the client is naked before she undresses. I suppose the legal idea here is that you've paid for a massage, but when she sees your irresistible naked body, she can no longer control herself and has to fuck you.

Relax and enjoy it. She a pro and you're the client. This isn't a woman you have to impress. She's been with a lot of other men who are a lot better looking than you, and a lot worse looking than you. As far as comparing yourself to other clients, if you are clean, sober, and nice to her, and made her laugh, you're already in the top 10% of all clients and you're doing just fine.

If you're nervous, you might start out with a back rub to get used to touching each other. Take your time. If this is your first time and you're uncomfortable, you might want to agree up front that you may need extra time and work out an extra tip and agency fee so that you can take longer if necessary. That way you don't have to rush things.

During foreplay, touch her softly like you would do with any other lover. Be romantic. Even though she is a pro, she is also a woman and her body responds like any woman's. If you know what you're doing, she is going to have a very good time too. Women enjoy sex and if the situations is right, they like to get their rocks off, just like you.

Being clean is a big turn on for escorts. Women like guys when they just got out of the shower. You want to be sensitive to what she wants. Some women don't like you to put your finger in them. Others just love it. If she says don't do something, don't do it. Most escorts don't do anal sex, so if that's what you want, you should say so when you call and get an escort that will do it. Also, kissing on the mouth is generally a no-no, so don't even try without asking first.

A condom is required. Don't ask if you can skip it because VD is real and the woman doesn't want to get it, or give it to you. However, many women don't buy the best condoms, so if you have a brand you like, buy your own and offer to use your condoms. It will save her from having to use one of hers. It will also avoid an awkward delay if she forgets to bring one and would otherwise have to leave and run to the store to get one. This actually happens more often than it should.

All women like candle light. Escorts are no exception.

I always keep a tube of KY Jelly by the bed. Lubrication is good. She may be wet enough already, but often she won't be. There are several reasons that a woman may not get wet, even when she's hot. These include where she is in her monthly cycle, if she's just douched, her mood, how many other guys she's done today, if her rent's paid, or what medication she's on (nasal decongestants will dry up more than her nose). So after putting the condom on, grease it up good.

Although the escort is supposed to bring these supplies it's a good idea that you have your own. I've had several escorts show up and forget to bring things so don't count on them having their act together. Besides, you may prefer a better brand of condom than they have. I personally like Lifestyle Ultra Thin Lubricated condoms. I don't get the ones with Nonoxinol 9 because I've had several escorts mention they have a bad reaction to it. I also keep a supply of tampons and douche. Also have clean washcloths and towels in the bathroom so you both can clean up afterwards.

Having Good Sex

Okay, here are some tips on how to do it right. If you want all the details about how to do it right you're going to have to Read my Book. People think that great lovers do great things that the average person could never do. That's not the way it really is. The way it really is is that a lot of guys do things wrong and a lot of what makes a great lover is not doing things wrong. So what I'm going to do here is give you the basics and tell you how to learn more for yourself. Three billion years ago life formed on this planet. At some point similar organisms started exchanging their DNA and sexual reproduction was started. In the early warm volcanic seas that covered the earth, some proto-organism fucked another proto-organism and life has been fucking ever since.

We are the descendants of three billion years of things fucking each other. Every form of life, from man down to plant life, wants to fuck something and exchange DNA. And we are the descendants of those who fucked, not of those who controlled themselves. There's nothing wrong with fucking and there's nothing wrong with fucking a total stranger. You have a dick and it's there for one reason only, and that's to fuck with. She has a cunt and its purpose is to get fucked. That's what it does. The process is to put your dick in her and deliver your semen so as to get her pregnant. That's the instinct you are born with and she's born with. Obviously, you don't really want to get her pregnant. But your body wants to feel like you're getting her pregnant, and her body wants to feel like she's getting pregnant.

I have found that sex is best when you get down to the instinctive level. As much as we pride ourselves on being superior beings, we are just like all other life on earth and our animal instincts cause us to have to fuck. That's why you're paying an escort for her services -- because your body needs it. And that's Okay. That's the way it is. I didn't make the rules. True love is just one style of having sex. There are many other styles. Just because you're not in love doesn't mean it's not personal and intimate.

When you get horny, you masturbate. That's part of the instinctual system that keeps you ready to fuck. You have to stay in shape so that when you get the opportunity to share your genetic material, you're ready. This has nothing to do with love or religion or other mystical powers. You're a man. You have a dick. You want to fuck. End of story.

Women are like that too. They have a cunt. It's there to receive a dick. Women need men to fuck them. They want to feel you get off inside them. They want to feel you pump your stuff into them and they want to contract their cunt around you when you do. They need it. They are women, that's what women do. Escorts are women too and have the same instincts as other women, often more.

A woman has a greater part of her body dedicated to having babies than a man does. She has a cunt that receives the dick, but she also has a uterus to carry fetuses and breasts for feeding babies. These organs are actively working in preparation for use. She has a period every month, giving her the opportunity to get pregnant. This is her instinct; she has to do it. Women instinctively like sex and want to have orgasms. All you have to do is allow her instincts to do the job.

Women get horny like men do. They masturbate like we do. It keeps them hot and ready to get laid when the time comes. When a woman has sex, she wants to come. Pro's have sex for money and often they don't want to come, but they are women and if you do it right, the instinct will take over.

Foreplay is mental as well as physical. Besides getting her ready physically, she also has to be ready mentally. And it's not just a matter of arousal. Most of foreplay involves developing trust. Women are more vulnerable during sex than men are. They are physically weaker than men, generally weigh less, and they are the one being penetrated. Women need to feel safe. So when you are touching women your touch should communicate to them that they are safe and that they can feel secure in enjoying themselves. In fact, generally the only limit to how much a woman can enjoy herself is how comfortable and safe she feels in how far she can let go. So a few candles, soft touches, and the right grin tell her she can drop her barriers and enjoy herself as much as she wants.

Much of sex is physical. You have your sex organ, she has hers. When you rub your dick right, you jack off and you come. When she rubs her cunt right, she jacks off and she comes. But if you rub it wrong, it doesn't work. One of the secrets is getting it right physically. That's why you want to use lubrication. Scraping your dick against dry cunt flesh hurts both of you. When you grease it up, it slides in better and feels good to both of you. Get out the KY and grease it up. If it gets dry again, which sometimes happens even during good sex, pull it out and grease it up again.

Always make sure there is sufficient lubrication.

Next you have to get the angle right so that you're in her and she's comfortable. What I do is work it in slow, holding my body above her and letting her guide it in. I basically push forward gently and let her work it down in. This lets her get it in herself comfortably and at her own speed, so she will not hurt herself. If you cause her pain, she isn't going to come because pain isn't sexually stimulating. One of the so-called "secrets" of the great lovers is simply to not cause the woman to experience pain.

After it's in, then you give her room to adjust the angle of penetration. That way she can get her cunt around your cock and press your pubic bone up against her clit in a way that feels good to her. All you have to do is give her the room and the time to adjust herself. Generally, even a pro who may have had no intention of having an orgasm with you will instinctively put you in the position that feels best to her.

Pain is a distraction from sexual enjoyment. Make sure you're not crushing her or cutting off blood flow do to awkward positions. Give her room to position herself correctly so that she's comfortable.

You also want to be careful that you aren't accidentally hurting her. If you're lying on top of her, shift some of your weight to your knees or elbows and make sure you're not crushing her and she can breathe. This is more important for you big guys on small girls. Also try to make sure you're not cutting off blood flow to her arms or legs. You always want to watch and give her room to move to where she's comfortable.

Making love is a lot like petting a cat. The cat lets you know what it wants. Women are just like that. Once you're in and adjusted, she'll start screwing you because she's getting horny and someone has to start. And once she starts fucking you, all you have to do is respond to her bodily cues and she'll come and think you're the greatest lover in the world. And you didn't really do anything but allow her to jack herself off.

See, that's the big secret. Women will make themselves come. You don't have to do it to them; they already know how. Just give them the chance to do it to themselves. It's their instinct and unless they actively fight it, they have to do it. And most of the time they can't fight it. They are, after all, the descendants of three billion years of successful fucking. They can hardly ruin a tradition like that.

The easiest way to learn how to do it right is to have the escort get on top. That gives her the most control over the motion. You lay face up with a pillow under your butt, raising your pelvis a little higher than usual and allowing you to get in a little deeper. She gets on top of you and slides herself down on you. You smile and tell her how pretty she looks, lightly stroking her breasts and her nipples as she puts you into her. Then she works you all the way in at the angle she likes.

Women will give you clues as to what they want next. All you have to do is watch for the clues. At this point you do nothing. Don't start fucking her; let her fuck you. Move only a little to match her movements but let her do the fucking. You just lay back and watch and touch her legs and breasts, her ass, her arms, kissing her softly on the arms. And just watch as she jacks herself off on top of you. She'll think you're an incredible lover, and you've done nothing but lay there and learn. And what you'll have learned is that even though you did almost nothing, you did nothing wrong. And you'll learn how women work and what they didn't teach you in school.

Even if the sex isn't all that great the first time, remember, it is, after all, your first time -- and like anything it will get better with practice. Your escort has been with a lot of men worse than you. She has done angry drunks who can't come and don't want to pay. She has done weirdoes who've threatened to hurt her. So if you are clean and polite, she's happy and she will look forward to seeing you again. You don't have to impress her with your manhood. Take the opportunity to learn -- and the education is worth the price. And chances are, she will enjoy teaching you.

Afterwards...

After it's over, it's time to clean up and say good night. It's nice to have a towel next to the bed to wipe up. If you really want to impress a pro, have a pan of warm water with a warm wash cloth by the bed. After sex, reach down and get it, ring it out, and hand it to her. Nothing feels better than a nice warm wash cloth. Otherwise, have some wash cloths in your bathroom for her to clean up. I keep an open box of tampons on the sink for guests to use. Just having these basic supplies available will impress most escorts. It doesn't take much to be a considerate client.

After she cleans up, she will need to call the agency and let them know she is done and is okay. Once she's made the call, you say goodbye and tell her that you had a nice time. If she likes you, you'll get a hug and maybe a kiss. Look around and make sure she has everything. Some women are bad about forgetting things like their pagers or articles of clothing. If she's had a good time she's more likely to leave things behind.

Becoming a "Regular"

If you find an escort you like and you see her many times, the sex usually gets better. You get to know each other better and know what each other likes. Like any relationship, the more time you spend together the better you get at it.

After a few sessions with the same person you become what is called a "regular". Escorts prefer to see regulars because they know what to expect, know you're not a cop, and know you're not a trouble maker. One way you can tell if your escort considers you a regular is when you pay. If she lets you pay afterwards, you're a regular.

Relationships with escorts can last for decades and a regular relationship can be fulfilling on many levels other than just sex.

Becoming a regular is like having a surrogate relationship. It's not the same as being married and living happily ever after. However, it's a lot better than being alone. There are a lot of people in the world that traditional marriage isn't something that's going to work. The idea that "there's someone for everyone" is a myth. If you find that someone and you have a golden anniversary, that's just great. But for most of us, that just isn't going to happen. And you can make yourself miserable waiting for it.

I personally like having several limited but yet still very personal relationships with several women. I have a lot of women friends and a variety of lovers and it works for me. It may not be ideal, but we don't live in an ideal world. I think I'm doing as well as I can under the circumstances. I'm happy with it and it works for me.

Since women move from service to service and in and out of the business I like to develop a regular relationship with several escorts. This way if your favorite is on the rag, in a bad mood, out of town, or quits, you have other choices to fall back on. Sometimes you're just in the mood for someone different. If I find an escort I really like I generally give her my card and tell her if she changes employers to call me and let me know who she's working for. I've also had women who got out of the business but still keep me as their only client. And part of the reason for that is that I gave them my phone number.

If at first you don't succeed...

Try, try again. Sometimes your first experience with a service isn't what you expected. You may have been emotionally too upset. You may have picked a woman who wasn't your type. You may not have known exactly what you wanted. Maybe you couldn't come. That's not unusual, especially the first time. It takes a while for some people to learn how to have sex with a total stranger. A certain part of sex is learned behavior and sometimes you have to try a few times to get it right. But once you get into it you'll find it's well worth it and you'll be able to do things you never dreamed.

Political Issues

Prostitution is illegal in most states. There are a number of reasons for this. You have your Christian types who oppose it for "moral" reasons. These people feel it's their right to stamp out all activity that they consider to be "sin". Little do they realize that a government that is empowered to regulate sex is empowered to regulate religion. Thus Christians are cutting their own political throats but aren't sharp enough to realize it.

Then you have a much more serious group, the sex-neg feminists who believe that prostitution is the ultimate form of female oppression by male dominated society. Again, these women can't get past the images they see on television and have no concept of what sex work is. A man who gives a woman money for a relationship, which often includes sex no more dominates her than a man who pays a mechanic to fix his car. When I take my car in to get it fixed I don't feel like I have power over the mechanic because I'm giving him money. He has power over me because I need my car fixed.

There are lots of prudes from Christians to Feminists who want the government to intrude into your private sex life in order to convince themselves they are morally superior. Support those who openly resist government controlled sex.

Lastly, wives fear whores because they are "competition". If your husband is unfaithful, you need to fix your relationship and deal with why he wants to be unfaithful. Whores don't cause the problem. I would point out that if your husband is being unfaithful that he is better off doing it with an escort than his secretary or someone who is actually competition. So I say to the wives who are reading this, male midlife crisis is real. It's usually temporary. It's something you can work through. And it's no reason to get divorced or break up your family. If you catch your husband with an escort, talk to him, work it out, and don't break up your family over it. There's no point in giving everything you own to a couple of greedy lawyers over a sexual indiscretion that is fixable.

Divorce laws in the United States are very hostile towards marriage and families. As long as we allow our courts to be used by crooked lawyers as tools to steal everything you have, the use of escort services will continue to rise.

The courts in the United States and other countries are very hostile towards the traditional family. There are too many people making too much money by destroying the lives of you and your children. Once a person has been through a nasty divorce they are far less likely to risk getting into a traditional relationship a second time. We allow lawyers to profit too much at the expense of the public and the government has become a predator allowing crooked lawyers to flourish at the expense of the family and the people who the courts are supposed to serve. If there is a moral issue surrounding escort services, it's that the penalty for being a good father and a good husband is much more severe than being caught with a hooker. When so called "proper behavior" is punished, people will stop behaving properly.

Legal Issues

I've been asked how to avoid cops. First of all, I believe that escort services are not sex for money. You're buying a relationship for money and it often includes sex. I've written a Legal Brief on the subject. The difference between escorts and cops is that an escort will avoid any conversation that the transaction is sex for money. A cop will try to get you to say that you are having sex for money. If the escort is using the words "sex for money" she is either very stupid, or she's a cop. If she is avoiding the words "sex for money" or any other similar agreements then she's probably OK.

Never say the words "sex for money" or make that agreement verbally. You are not buying sex for money. It's a surrogate relationship that may include sexual contact.

She should also be paranoid that you are a cop. Most of the time there is a setup it's the client who's the cop trying to bust the escort. So you don't want to talk about "sex for money" either. She has more reason to be paranoid about you being a cop. Don't be insulted by this. Cops would better serve the public if they focused on real crime like murders, bank robbers, and rapists, and leave consenting adults alone.

One common misconception about being busted is that you don't actually have to have sex for money to get busted. All you have to do is to agree to have sex for money. So either of you can get busted even if no sex or money changes hands. They do need to get it on tape though. So never say those words and she should never say those words. I think saying that you are experiencing "love at first sight" followed by a big grin is a good way to break the ice. You might ask her if she's experiencing love at first sight. A conversation like that would never occur if there were a cop involved because it wouldn't be very convincing in front of a jury. So if you can say things that cops wouldn't want on tape it tends to show her you're not a cop.

.....However, if you're an escort service and pass this out you have to let me know and if I'm ever in your town, I get one escort free. If I never show up it costs you nothing. But if I show up, that's my price. One on the house."

Oh My. Are you shocked yet?

If a woman on Match.com or OKCUPID looks too good to be true, she may be. Look at the pictures and say to yourself: "Does this person really have trouble getting asked out?"

It is OK to ask a person, prior to a date, if they are offering sex for money. As awkward as it is, it will save you lots of time and grief later. It is wrong and abusive for guys to get tricked into dates by women who expect to be using them for cash instead of intending to marry them or become their long-term girlfriends.

