WASHINGTON — Former FBI director James Comey is vulnerable to a possible obstruction of justice charge for his conduct in the Hillary Clinton email investigation. Comey deleted Barack Obama's name from the Bureau's report to conceal Obama's knowledge of the illegal server, and also deleted evidence that Clinton's emails were hacked by foreign adversaries.

Comey's firing by President Donald Trump in 2017 is at the center of Comey's friend Robert Mueller's attempt to charge President Trump for obstruction of justice. Mueller previously
