

You have never actually used the web if you think that the web is the thing that Silicon Valley pumps at you!

By EFF2

Did you actually think that the pretty pretend pictures you saw on AOL, Facebook or Google was the actual world wide web?

You idiot!

When you use a browser to connect to a corporate set of servers, all you are seeing is the corporate message that a few billionaires want you to see. You are not "surfing the web". You are only DISPLAYING CORPORATE PROPAGANDA TO YOURSELF!

Let's get this straight: When you look at things through a corporate brand you are viewing a garden with a wall around it and all of the flowers are plastic. That is what the corporate internet is. When you scan and organize your own searches outside of corporate brands, and you avoid corporate propaganda web sites: THAT IS THE WORLD WIDE WEB!
